PREFACE.

The Fines (Pedes Finium), which are the subject of this Calendar, form part of a large collection preserved at the Public Record Office. In this collection the fines relating to each county are arranged in a separate series under the name of that county, and the fines which refer to several counties are grouped in two large classes, called 'Divers Counties' and 'Various Counties.' Each fine is numbered at the foot, and the same number appears before the title in the Calendar referring to it, so that if an applicant at the Record Office wishes to see any particular fine, he would refer to it as Surrey Fines, 7 Richard I., No. 1, 9; Henry III., No. 73, etc. The different series date, as a rule, from temp. Richard I. (though there are a few earlier) to 1834, when a statute was passed 'For the Abolition of Fines and Recoveries, and the substitution of more simple modes of assurance.'

Probably every member of the Society knows what a fine is, but if perchance there be some who do not, the following brief description may give them some interest in this Calendar, which would otherwise to them be a mere list of names and places.

A fine was so called from the words Finalis Concordia with which it begins, and also from its effect in putting a final end to all suits and contentions, was an amicable agreement or composition of the suit (whether fictitious or real) in which it was made.

The fine, which commenced with the words Hæc est finalis

Concordia, was the embodiment in a permanent form of the agreement or composition made between the parties with the license of the judges to concord, and was enrolled amongst the Records of the Court in which the suit was commenced: down to the time of Edward I. such enrolment is to be found in the Curia Regis Rolls, and after that date for the most part in the De Banco Rolls. These fines related almost exclusively to free tenements and the incidents arising from or connected with them, such as tenures, services, rents, and grants of freedom, and were the means by which they might be transferred, settled, or limited. Mr. Scargill Bird, in his Guide to the Documents at the Public Record Office, says, in the section dealing with Fines and Recoveries: 'They are said to be of equal antiquity with the first rudiments of the law, instances having been produced of them even prior to the Norman invasion, and they no doubt originated in actual suits for recovering the possession of lands or other hereditaments, the possession thus gained being found so sure and effectual that fictitious actions were soon introduced for the sake of obtaining the same security.' The view that what afterwards came to be the process of levying a fine was originally a real action tried before the Court, is supported by the fact that the various stages of the early forms of both are identical, and I have seen cases, temp. H. III., where what was apparently a contentious action had been begun and various steps in the action taken, and then the parties have come and prayed for license to concord, which has been given, and a day for the parties to have the chirograph appointed.

The early process of levying a fine was this: A præcipe or writ was issued, and on the fourth day after service the parties appeared in Court and prayed for license to concord, which was granted; the terms of concord were then entered into, sometimes there being an adjournment for this purpose, and a day was given for them to attend and receive the chirograph, when they attended, and each party received a part of this engrossment of the final concord, the third part being enrolled by the Court.

Further information can be obtained by reference to Cruise's Essay on Fines and Recoveries, 1794, or for a brief but very succinct account of the fine used as a conveyance, settlement, or transfer, the reader should refer to the article in Mr. Scargill Bird's Guide to the Public Records, previously referred to.

In the index of this Calendar I have collected together as far as possible the different variants of the name of a person or place under one heading with cross references, but I would warn those referring to the index that it is almost impossible to do this in every case, and that they must look for possible variants themselves to render their search complete.

The multiplicity of variants in some cases is very perplexing, and would seem to depend in some cases either upon the education or sobriety of the clerk who engrossed the fine, or of the person who instructed him, and in others as to whether the clerk entered on the roll the original English name spelt properly or misspelt, as the case may be, or what he considered to be the French or Latin equivalent of it. For example, see Wandsworth, Windsor, Abinger, and Southwark: amongst the names of places and persons, and amongst the names of persons, 'de molendino,' 'de molendinis,' 'atte mulne,' and 'del Molyn,' or 'atte Strete,' 'de la Strete,' 'del Strete,' and others, etc.

Such entries as 'Robert de Bath fil' Robert de Weston,' p. 28, or 'Thomas atte Doune fil' Richard Puffe,' p. 151, are very interesting topics for discussion, as are the place, trade, and nicknames to be found in this Calendar, and the various theories which have been propounded thereon, but however much one is tempted to do so, this is not the place to enter into a disquisition on such subjects.

The Calendar will be of interest not only to Surrey antiquaries, but also to antiquaries in general, as there are a very large number of fines classified with the county of Surrey which relate to Southwark and the adjacent parishes and manors. In many cases where a party to a fine was a citizen of London, mention is made of the City Guild to which he belonged, and possibly many missing links in genealogy or other debateable points may be traced out and settled.

Some five years ago I wished to obtain some information relative to certain places in Surrey which the county histories of Manning and Bray, Allen, and Walford did not disclose, and to complete my search it became necessary to examine the series of pedes finium relating to the county. To my dismay, and probably others have experienced the same feeling, I found that until temp. Henry VII., with the exception of Hunter's transcripts, temp. Richard I., and John, there was no Calendar, and that I should have to look through about 3,000 Surrey and 7,000 divers counties' fines to see if the information I wished to obtain was to be found amongst them. With a view of making these fines more accessible to myself I compiled this Calendar, and finding it of very great use to myself, I considered that it would be of equal use to Surrey antiquaries and others, and I offered to give it to our County Society provided that it was printed en bloc. This offer was accepted, and the result is now put before the members of this society in the hope that by throwing open this, for practical purposes, new source of information as to field names, tenures, services, etc., our local antiquarian research may be generally aided and developed. I must mention that I am greatly indebted to Mr. Mill Stephenson, one of the hon. secretaries of the Society, for the assistance which I have received from him from time to time.
